

HOOVER FORCES CONTROL DRAFT OF PLATFORM

ANTI-HOOVER CANDIDATES' TALKS READY

All Will be Put Up to the Convention by Their Backers

Kansas City, June 14—(AP)—The four presidential candidates opposing Herbert Hoover's nomination, calling themselves the "allies," decided today after conferences, to have their names placed in nomination in the face of almost certain defeat.

Some of the candidates favored withdrawing their nominating speeches and retiring from the race before the balloting started, but today the candidates—Watson, Goff, Curtis and Lowden—agreed to go forward with their original program of having their names placed before the convention.

At the same time informal agreement was reached among some of the convention leaders today to lay aside the vexing Vice-Presidential situation until Herbert Hoover's nomination is effected and he is given an opportunity to indicate his wishes.

Rivalry Developed.

Meanwhile the rivalry among the score of candidates was developing some high-powered politics today with managers and even candidates rushing about the floor seeking to lineup delegations.

The stock of Vice-President Dawes was declared on the wane by some of the Hoover administration group, but no outstanding opponent had been developed.

Once more the discussion returned to Senator Curtis of Kansas, who is holding off word to his friends of his availability until the Presidential race, in which he is a contestant, is settled. Senator Capper of Kansas announced there had been a renewal of talk among the middlewestern bloc for Curtis and that his name would go before the convention unless the Republican leader of the Senate blocked it.

Senator Deneen of Illinois continued to be mentioned but there was the suggestion that unless his delegation could support Hoover it would seriously handicap his chances. The Senator himself was taking no interest in the affair but the Illinois delegation was talking it over and there were indications he would be put forward.

Governor Baker of Missouri and former Gov. Hyde of the same state also were frequently mentioned.

Kansas City, June 4—(AP)—Determined to get at least one kick out of the convention with the presidential race virtually settled, republican delegates were making the most of their opportunity today to wrangle over a Vice Presidential candidate, and Dawes, Moses and Deneen seemed to be uppermost in the discussion.

But it was all in the discussion stage as the proceedings moved slowly toward selection of the presidential nominee and until Herbert Hoover cashes in on his winning stack of delegates there appear to be little likelihood of a crystallization of sentiment on one man for second place.

Almost every state banner carried the name of a Vice Presidential candidate and some states were worried with two or three on their hands.

Hoover "Neutral"

"Strictly neutral," was the word which went out from Hoover headquarters. Attempts to get an inkling from the Commerce Secretary in Washington have failed.

Some Hoover folks believed that strategy demanded a middle western candidate. Vice President Dawes was the first name to be heard after the presidential contest appeared settled and today he still was in the minds of convention leaders of many factions. However, the name of Senator Deneen of Illinois, from the same state as Mr. Dawes, had popped up with a good deal of force over night and there were indications that the Hoover people closest to the Secretary would look with more favor on Deneen as against Dawes.

Reed For Moses

Meanwhile, the east was heard from with a roar as Senator Reed of the powerful Pennsylvania group, came out for Senator Moses of New Hampshire, who is presiding over the convention as permanent chairman.

But there were actually a score of candidates still in the running today, with the east also proposing Senator Fuller of Massachusetts; Representative Tilson of Connecticut, and Representative Hamilton Fish, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and William J. Donovan, all of New York.

In the west, the names of Sam

PLANKS IN G. O. P. PLATFORM

Kansas City, June 14—(AP)—Here are the high spots of the platform presented to the Republican National Convention today by its resolutions committee:

AGRICULTURE—Reorganization of marketing system on sounder and more economical lines and creation of farm board with power to set up farmer-owned and controlled corporations to prevent and control surpluses through orderly distribution.

PROHIBITION—Observance and vigorous enforcement of Eighteenth Amendment.

HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT—Appointment of officials whose integrity cannot be questioned.

CAMPAIGN EXPENDITURES—Economy, honesty, and decency in the conduct of political campaigns, with contributions for common good or not at all.

PUBLIC ECONOMY—Pledge to live up to "high standard" set by President Coolidge.

FOREIGN POLICY—Maintenance of the Coolidge policies in Latin America and China, and endorsement of multi-lateral treaty renouncing war.

PUBLIC DEBT—Continued reduction as rapidly as law permits.

TAX REDUCTION—Further reduction of tax burden as condition of Treasury from time to time may allow.

TARIFF—Reaffirmation of party's belief in protective tariff and support of legislation to give farmer full benefit under it.

FOREIGN DEBTS—Continued opposition to cancellation.

Holdup in K. C. is Counter Attraction

Kansas City, June 14—(AP)—Six or eight bandits today held up the Home Trust Co. in the downtown district here, and escaped with loot estimated at approximately $60,000.

Two policemen and a bystander were shot by the robbers as they fled from the bank.

There was no shooting in the bank. After the robbers had scooped up the money in the tellers' cage, several employees hurried to the hold-up and the bandits retreated through the overpowering fumes.

The gas was so heavy in the bank 30 minutes after the holdup that it was impossible for bank officials to enter and make an accurate check up of the loot.

Alexander Rieger, President, estimated that the loot amounted to $60,000.

Walnut Street was crowded with delegates and others on their way to Convention Hall, six blocks away, for today's session of the Republican National Convention when the hold-up occurred. The jammed downtown streets aided the robbers in their escape.

J. B. Smith, traffic officer at 11th and Walnut, was shot in the neck and shoulder. His condition was reported dangerous. Patrolman Wiggins was shot in the leg, and an unidentified woman, standing more than a block from the bank was wounded in the leg. The bandits fired with shotguns in their race away from the bank building.

Polo Child Victim of Pre-Fourth Mishap

Bruce Hancock, three year old son of Rev. and Mrs. Hancock of Polo, will in all probability lose his left eye as the result of the first pre-Fourth of July accident in this vicinity. The little fellow, while playing with other children near his home last evening, looked into a tin can in which a fire cracker had been placed. The crackling, striking him in the left eye and puncturing the ball. He was brought to the Dixon hospital and the attending physician stated today that the sight had been destroyed and that in all probability the eye ball would have to be removed.

NOBILE'S PARTY CONFIDENT THEY WILL BE SAVED

But Nothing Has Been Heard from Ten Separate from Chief

BY O. ARNESEN
Correspondent of the Associated Press (Copyrighted, 1928, By the Associated Press)

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 14—(AP)—General Umberto Nobile, and the five men of the crew of the Italia stranded with him off Norese Land believe that they are now virtually safe.

In communications exchanged between the Citta di Milano and the Nobile party, Giuseppe Biagi, Radio operator for the stranded men, said that the group, which has been waiting rescue for almost three weeks, felt that safety was in sight.

This response, which was not elaborated, was felt at Kings Bay to indicate that the party is now so near Boeck Island or Foyn Island that they could get ashore or that with news of the various rescue expeditions hastening to their aid they felt sure they would be saved.

Ten Unheard From

No news has been received of the fate of the other ten men of the party. Three of these men, including Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish Meteorologist, left the Nobile party on May 30 in an effort to reach North Cape over the ice and have since dropped from sight. The other seven men were carried off in the balloon part of the Italia when the cabin was torn loose as the dirigible struck the ice.

Ice experts at Kings Bay said today that there was a possibility the balloon party might have reached land by being blown toward King Charles Island, south of Northeast Land in Barents Sea.

During the three weeks since the Italia met disaster, there have been only a few days of good sunny weather, most of the time being marked by strong winds, a gray sky, snow and cold.

Icebreaker Starts

The icebreaker Braganza, which returned to Kings Bay yesterday to take on fresh provisions, will start north again tonight. She will take the Norwegian planes aboard and will try to reach North Cape. The Hobby, which has been serving as base ship for the Norwegian fliers, Captain Riser-Larsen and Lieutenant Luetzow Holm, will return to Norway where she is needed for other work.

Dog teams will be carried aboard the Braganza and it is believed that they will be able to reach the Nobile party within fourteen days if the Russian icebreaker Malignin or the planes have not previously effected rescues.

Goodrich Rubber Co. Wins Important Suit

Detroit, June 14—(AP)—The right of the Steel Wheel Corporation, of Lansing, Mich., to manufacture balloon tires exclusively in the United States was denied today in a decision by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle in the corporation's patent infringement suit against the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Akron, O.

EQUALIZATION FEE BASIS MINORITY'S FARM RELIEF PLAN

Text of Plank Given Republicans Today by the Minority

Kansas City, June 14—(AP)—The equalization fee principle of the twice-vetted McNary-Haugen bill constitutes the basis of the farm relief plank proposed to the Republican convention today by a minority of the resolutions committee as a substitute for the plank incorporated in the platform in its stead by a 25 to 15 vote.

Calling attention to the agricultural surplus problem but not mentioning the fee by name, the minority plank seeks to put the party on record as believing "that any operations undertaken to assist farmers to meet this problem should be largely under the direction of farmers' cooperative associations, with the use of only such federal powers as are necessary to distribute the costs and losses that may be incurred in dealing with agricultural surpluses over each marketed unit of the crop whose producers are to be benefited by such assistance."

The plank subsequently endorses "the aim and principle of this distributing the costs of the concerted action over the commodity benefited," and pledges efforts by the party for "the perfection and support of a measure, based on this principle which can receive general support and become a law."

Text Minority Plank

The text in part of the minority plank follows:

"No issue confronting the nation is of more vital importance than that upon which depends the future of our agriculture. We recognize that there is and has been since the war a disparity between farm prices of the main cash crops of agriculture, and the costs that enter into farm production. The Republican party pledges that the united efforts of the legislative and executive branches of government, so far as they are controlled by the party, will be devoted to the immediate enactment of legislation aimed to restore and maintain the purchasing power of farm products, and the complete economic equality of agriculture.

"We affirm that the successful development and protection of agriculture is the nation's basic industry. It has been one of the great accomplishments of the Republican party. "We recognize that, owing to the limited human control that can be exercised over forces that govern volume of farm production, it is impossible for farmers by concerted action to adjust their production to demand as accurately as can be done in other productive lines. We also recognize that our national policies of the past have expanded the agricultural plan of the nation as the foundation of national wealth and security.

Surplus Problem

"The Republican party recognizes that the surplus problem of agriculture calls for national legislation to aid the farmers in its solution, since the number and wide distribution of the producers of many important crops renders concerted action in handling surpluses impossible. We do not favor legislation which attempts to correct this situation through direct or indirect Treasury subsidies.

We believe that any operations undertaken to assist farmers to meet this problem should be largely under the direction of farmers' cooperative associations, with the use of only such federal powers as are necessary to distribute the costs and losses that may be incurred in dealing with agricultural surpluses, over each marketed unit of the crop whose producers are to be benefited by such assistance.

"The Republican Congresses have been most responsive in the matter of agricultural appropriations, not only to meet crop emergencies, but for the

Seeks Lee Co. Cattle for State Purposes

Superintendent L. R. Robinson of the state department of farm and dairying was in Dixon this first of the week looking over cattle and hogs, with a view of purchasing several head of some of the state institutions. Dr. F. B. Jones of this city accompanied Superintendent Robinson on his tour of the Lee county farms, which have proved a source of supply for several of the institution farms during the past 18 months. A two year old Holstein bull was purchased from Roy Lehman of near Franklin Grove and sent to the Alton state farm as a herd sire.

Judge Chauncey H. Jenkins, former head of the Department of State Charitable Institutions has recently purchased several head of pure bred Holsteins from breeders in the vicinity of Dixon, which have been sent to his large farm estate near Springfield. Three pure bred Holstein heifers were purchased from Charles Hecker, who resides north of Dixon, and a pure bred cow and calf were purchased from the Galt & Reid stock farm at Prairieville and consigned to the same purchaser.

Farmers Storm G. O. P. Convention Hall to Attack Hoover and Demand Farm Relief

On the second day of the Republican convention at Kansas City, several hundred farmers stormed the doors of Convention hall, seeking to stage a demonstration against Herbert Hoover and to demand a strong farm relief plank. Police reserves kept them from gaining admittance to the hall. This NEA photo shows the farmers at the doors of the hall, with banners reading, "We Don't Want Hoover," "Anybody But Hoover," and "Don't Make Us Vote the Democratic Ticket in November."

Farmer Band Plays a Funeral March

After police kept a delegation of farmers from storming Convention Hall in Kansas City to stage a demonstration against Herbert Hoover and for farm relief, the farmers started parading around the hall with its band playing Chopin's "Funeral March," and the "Dead March" from Saul. Evidently, the farmers were trying to convince the G. O. P. leaders, the party would be in danger of death, if the farmers' demands were not met. This photo shows the farmers' band, dressed in overalls and big straw hats.

SUPERVISORS TO ACT ON DIXON'S BRIDGE APPEAL

No Apparent Opposition to Granting County Help

All of the members of the city council met this morning with the road and bridge committee of the board of supervisors in the interest of the proposed Peoria avenue bridge. The finance committee of the county board was also called into the session and it was expected that the final action of the board on the city's petition for county aid would be taken at this afternoon's session. There was no apparent opposition to the plan for the construction of the bridge, the morning session being called for the purpose of arranging final plans.

At this morning's session of the board, reports of several committees were presented and acted upon. The educational committee presented a report in which an appropriation of $1,500 was sought for the Assistant County Superintendent of schools and Truant Officer. The matter was referred to the fees and salaries committee to report at this session.

Charles Bott of this city was appointed to serve as constable in Dixon township to fill a vacancy caused by the removal of Chandler E. White from the township.

At a short session late yesterday afternoon the judiciary committee filed a list of prospective jurors, the names of 100 of whom are to be drawn for petit jury service at the September term of the circuit court.

The road and bridge committee reported favoring the granting of county aid to Bradford township in the sum of $999.50 for the construction of a bridge, the appropriation being allowed by the board.

County Judge Leech requested the board to provide for the hiring of a stenographer and filing clerk in his office, the matter being referred to the fees and salaries committee to report at the present session.

Max Elchler made a business trip to Chicago Wednesday.

PRESIDENT AND WIFE EN ROUTE TO NORTH TODAY

Special Train Departed from Washington on Wednesday Night

BULLETIN

Aboard President Coolidge's Special Train Enroute to Superior, Wis., June 14—(AP)—After a comfortable night on the train President and Mrs. Coolidge woke up early today to a rainy and misty morning while racing through the central states on their way to the summer White House in Wisconsin.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were reported by Col. James F. Moupal, White House physician, as much rested by their night's repose. Mrs. Coolidge especially had apparently suffered no ill from the trip so far.

Her spirits were as high as when she left Washington last night and her lack of temperature and good appetite made Col. Moupal confident that she was well on the way to complete recovery from the sudden disposition which obliged a two day postponement last Monday of the journey west.

Newspapers were deposited on the special train at the stops it made for supplies and fuel, and from there President Coolidge obtained early in the morning the latest developments at the Kansas City convention.

On Board President Coolidge's Special Train en route to Superior, Wisconsin, June 14—(AP)—Delayed two days in leaving Washington for his vacation, President Coolidge was pushing steadily westward today on his way to his Wisconsin summer home.

With him was Mrs. Coolidge whose sudden indisposition on Monday caused the last minute postponement of the trip. Although she rose from her bed in the White House yesterday to undertake the move, she did so after careful examination of White

FARM RELIEF CENTER REAL FIGHT TODAY

No Equalization Plan Decree of Republican Convention

By BYRON PRICE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Convention Hall, Kansas City, June 14—(AP)—A farm bloc protest with the ring of a challenge sounded through convention hall today as the Republican party proceeded toward the final ratification of the platform for 1928.

Interrupting a succession of its own speakers, as they gave militant notice that the farm states really were aroused for the McNary-Haugen bill, the anti-Hoover coalition of delegates centering around Lowden of Illinois, carried away convention decorum with a 10-minute demonstration in defiance of the convention gavel. While a farm leader in a gallery acted as cheer leader they whooped it up with such a din as the convention had not heard since it met last Tuesday, and were quiet only when the convention chairman told them that more speechmaking against the proposed administrative farm plank was still to come.

Noisy Session

This plank itself, which promises farm relief but leaves out all mention of the equalization fee, was defended by a relay of speakers under the captaincy of Representative Ford of New Jersey, the Hoover floor leader, while the states whose delegations stand against the McNary-Haugen bill took their turn at noisy approbation.

Earl C. Smith of Illinois, speaking first for the supporters of an equalization fee endorsement in the party platform, told the convention that if it expected the support of the Republican farmers of the middle west, the time had come to abandon generalities in national conventions. Frank W. Murphy, also an Illinoisan and an active worker in Washington for the McNary-Haugen bill, went on to warn his fellow delegates that "you cannot fool the farmer any more with platform pledges; while others, including Governor McMillen of Nebraska, not only asked for a 'real farm plank,' but advocated also the selection of a middle western candidate for President.

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Convention Hall, Kansas City, Mo., June 14—(AP)—Advancing with swinging stride toward the nomination of a ticket and final adjournment by noon tomorrow, the Hoover majority in the Republican National Convention today rallied in overwhelming number to repel a final, spectacular attack by western insurgents and members of the McNary-Haugen bloc on an administration party platform omitting mention of the equalization fee.

In a floor fight of real proportions the dissenters made repeated rallies at the steadfast ranks of the Coolidge-Hoover forces, with the farm relief planks as their central objective.

Linked as it was with the protest of the allied candidates against Hoover himself as the party candidate, the farm plank warfare completely overshadowed a lesser dispute over the prohibition plank.

LaFollette Took Lead

Young LaFollette of Wisconsin, following in the footsteps of a father whose insurgency spread its record during his lifetime on the history of a whole string of Republican conventions, took the lead in the assault on the tentative platform draft submitted by Smoot of Utah, chairman of the platform committee. Offering a complete platform of his own, in which farm relief took the place of greatest prominence, the Wisconsin Senator was smothered under a chorus of "noes" after the convention had paid him the personal tribute of a rousing ovation at the end of his speech. He did not ask for a roll call.

Smith In Attack

The second and major attack was launched under the leadership of Earl C. Smith of the Lowden-pledged Illinois delegation, who spoke for a minority plank supported by fifteen members of the platform committee, and approving the twice-vetted equalization fee for agriculture. It was this proposal which precipitated a division of the convention all along the line between the Hoover and Coolidge delegates, supporting the Presidential veto, and the delegates of the allied forces standing out against the Hoover majority.

The fighting speech of LaFollette was one of the most colorful of the convention. In a manner of delivery

Indicted Officials
Closed Rutland Bank
Ottawa, Ill., June 14.—(AP)—Former officials of the Rutland, Ill. State Bank which closed in May, 1927, were indicted by the LaSalle County grand jury today on three charges of accepting deposits when they knew the bank to be insolvent. Robert A. Ward, the president, was named in a similar separate indictment. Ward who also was president of the Magnolia, Ill. State Bank which closed two weeks prior to the Rutland bank, is facing similar charges in Putnam county. Those named with Ward by the LaSalle county grand jury were Charles Drummet, former vice-president; Fred A. Sauer, former cashier; and Charles E. Blankenship and Geo. A. Sauer, former directors.

At the Parlor Club picnic supper Monday evening at 6:30 at the Masonic hall, the club will furnish meat, coffee and cream. Each member attending will bring dishes and sandwiches for her family and a generous dish to pass. Cards will follow supper.

reminiscent of his father, "Bob" the elder, the young Senator kept the attention of every delegate as he pleaded for the policies of the insurgent Wisconsin Republicans. At one point, when he mentioned President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill, the speaker was showered with ironic applause from the administration delegates, led by the Massachusetts delegation in the front row just before the speaker's stand.

Smith's Ultimatum
"It is so unusual for a delegate from Wisconsin to receive applause in a Republican convention" he replied, smiling down on Massachusetts, "that I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

No reply was made to the LaFollette speech, the convention voting overwhelmingly and instantly to reject out of hand his minority report.

Smith laid down what sounded like a direct challenge to the administration when he said that if the party hoped for success at the polls in November, it must go further than the majority had gone in the tentative platform draft.

"If you expect the support of the Republican farmers of the great Republican middlewestern states, you must face this issue fairly and squarely," he said. "We are through with generalities."

The position the party must take on farm relief today was squarely up to the convention for determination today.

Unable to compose differences which for nearly 36 hours held the resolutions committee in almost continuous session, the two opposing groups decided late last night that this question, which has been one of the most controversial confronting the Coolidge administration, must be settled by the convention itself.

By a vote of 35 to 15, the committee approved a tentative draft of a farm plank, which omits all reference to the equalization fee provisions of the twice vetoed McNary-Haugen farm bill, and ordered this embodied in a party platform for submission on the convention floor.

File Minority Report
Immediately after this vote farm leaders announced they had prepared a minority report containing a farm relief plank endorsing the equalization fee in principle for presentation simultaneously with that approved by the majority of the committee.

After disposing of the farm question, the resolutions committee with unexpected dispatch approved by a viva voce vote the Borah plank calling specifically for the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment, and those who opposed it gave no indication of renewing this fight on the floor today.

With the farm and prohibition planks out of the way the committee wasted but little time in approving all of the other planks dealing with the multitudinous activities with which the federal government is concerned. This completed the work on the party platform which had been whipped into shape by a subcommittee of fifteen.

Turn Down LaFollette
As approved the platform, with the exception of revisions for two clerical errors, was identical to the one submitted by the sub-committee, which body, although unable to agree on a farm plank, had submitted a tentative draft of a plank on that question along with its other recommendations.

Before winding up its work, however, the resolutions committee rejected a motion by Senator LaFollette to substitute a platform framed by himself in which he said, among other things, a modification of the Volstead Act was proposed.

In addition to votes on farm relief, prohibition and the LaFollette motion, the committee also voted on a plank declaring in favor of full publicity of campaign expenditures. This was adopted by another viva voce ballot.

Tentative Farm Plank
The farm plank as approved declares that the agriculture industry faces a serious situation. That the trouble lies chiefly in the disposition of crop surpluses and their marketing, and pledges the Republican party to devise ways and means of remedying the situation. It advocates creation of a Federal Farm Board as one means of aiding agriculture.

The minority farm plank, drafted by Earl Smith of Illinois, after a conference with other farm leaders, declares in favor of the equalization fee principle for the control and disposition of surplus crops.

After the committee had rejected the farm group's demands, Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the committee, endeavored to obtain the roll call ballot for newspaper correspondents. The ballot, however, could not be found by committee clerks, and the Senator, after a search of his records and his coat pockets said it had disappeared. Later, farm leaders numbered among their supporters in the fight for the fee principle the following delegates:

Favored Fee Principle
Frank W. Murphy, of Minnesota; A. D. McBurney of Michigan; Earl C. Smith of Illinois; E. G. Larson of North Dakota; Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota; J. O. Shaff of Iowa; Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., of Wisconsin; J. E. Green of Florida; Carl Brattin of Montana; Boyd Jarrell of West Virginia; Arthur W. Campbell of Arkansas; B. W. S. Daniel of Georgia; Victor S. K. Houston of Hawaii; J. D. Wickersham of Alaska; and Henry W. Marshall of Indiana.

WAS DOUBTFUL ABOUT GLY-CAS AT THE START

Dixon Lady Now Knows It Is Far Above Ordinary Stomach, Bowel Medicines.

Hundreds and hundreds of people, skeptical of the merits of the new vegetable Gly-Cas at first because they had tried so many different medicines without satisfactory relief at all, have soon realized that Gly-Cas is truly one medicine of merit that is far above the multitude of present day preparations.

Mrs. W. H. McDonald, respected and well-known Dixon lady who lives at 824 Woodlawn Ave., in a conversation with the Gly-Cas Man who is at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Dixon, a few days ago said:

"I had used so many preparations that were recommended for stomach and bowel troubles that I was at first skeptical about the merits of your Gly-Cas."

"For a long number of years I suffered from a disordered stomach and constipation," continued Mrs. McDonald. "I was very careful about my eating, yet even then I had much distress from gas formations. I also had to endure headaches and seemed tired and worn out most of the time. With friends urging me to do so I began taking your Gly-Cas, although I was skeptical at first, I am convinced now that this Gly-Cas is far above ordinary preparations because it has entirely relieved me of my stomach and bowel troubles. Instead of having to be careful in my eating, as before, I eat anything now and actually enjoy my meals, my bowels have been regulated and my constipation has been banished. It is remarkable the merit this Gly-Cas possesses and I advise any sufferer to try it for actual satisfaction."

The Gly-Cas Man is at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Dixon, and is daily meeting the public and explaining this surprising new vegetable Gly-Cas. Sold by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

House physicians who declared her sufficiently recovered to be able to stand the long journey without undue danger.

The departure of the presidential party from Washington occurred without special ceremony.

Walked Unassisted
Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge left the White House for the station almost three hours before the scheduled departure of the train. Mrs. Coolidge was strong enough to walk along without even the help of Mr. Coolidge's arm, and alone she entered the car.

The special car had been placed in the silence and darkness of a remote siding where it stood quiet, except for the barking of Rob Roy, Tiny Train and King Cole, three of the White House dogs allowed in the special car, until it was hitched on to the rest of the train when this pulled out of the station proper.

Both Retired Early
President and Mrs. Coolidge sat in the parlor of their car only a short while and then retired before the train got under way. Their car was joined to the rest of the train so carefully that they were not even disturbed.

In allowing the journey to start yesterday, White House physicians had counted on keeping Mrs. Coolidge in bed throughout the trip to Superior.

Colonel James F. Coupal was the medical officer in charge of the trip. The large nine car special train taking the Chief Executive west carried about seventy people.

Special radio arrangements had been made on the train to allow President Coolidge to follow the political situation if he so desired.

SUPERIOR PREPARES.
Superior, Wis., June 14.—(AP)—Electrified by the news the President and Mrs. Coolidge are on their way to the summer home on the Brule river, northwestern Wisconsin today sprang into feverish activity making final preparations for their reception and comfort during the summer months. Decorations along the 36 miles route from the railroad station here to Cedar Island Lodge were today given final adjustments. Flags and tricolors were hung along Superior streets, while welcome signs and rustic arches were ready to announce the greetings of outlying districts and villages along the road.

SELLS GROCERY STORE
Thomas Paulos of the Pay Cash grocery, this afternoon announced the sale of his store to Roy Ploewman. Mr. Paulos will discontinue in the grocery business, but stated that he would embark later in another line of activity in the same store room, the nature of which he is not ready to divulge. The stock will be closed out and the fixtures sold at an early date.

R. McKelvie, former Governor of Nebraska; Senator Curtis of Kansas; Henry J. Allen, former Governor of Kansas; Governor Baker of Missouri; Hanford McNider of Iowa; General John J. Pershing and many others were still in the running.

Three Are Available
There seems to be no doubt of the availability of Vice President Dawes, Senator Deneen and Senator Moses. None of the trio is participating in any way in their campaigns, but none has declared absolutely he would not run.

The big question has been about Mr. Dawes, but his friends, including Ed Clifford, of Illinois, believe he will accept if "drafted". It is understood that some of the leaders of the farm group sent word to Dawes that they were against him going on the ticket with Hoover and that Dawes indicated he would await any decision until informed of details of the party's platform which was finally drafted last night.

Senator Deneen's candidacy puts the problem directly up to Illinois, which probably will caucus, but there were signs that he would have that state's support if his name was presented.

The Illinois Senator voted not only for the McNary-Haugen bill, but to pass it over the veto of President Coolidge. However, Mr. Dawes has been regarded also as friendly to this measure, at least in favor of the controversial equalization fee provision.

extension and development of the activities of the Department of Agriculture.

"The Treasury Department and the proper committees of Congress have lightened the tax burden of farming communities and through the federal farm loan system it has made available to the farmers of the nation one billion eight hundred fifty millions of dollars for loaning purposes at a low rate of interest."

Helped by Tariff
"Last, but not least, the Federal Tariff Commission has at all times shown a willingness under the provisions of the flexible tariff act to aid the farmers when foreign competition, made possible by low wage scales abroad, threatened to deprive our farmers of their domestic markets. Under this act the President has increased duties on wheat, flour, mill feed and dairy products. Numerous other farm products are now being investigated by the Tariff Commission."

"We promise every assistance in the reorganization of the marketing system."

Bridge Dinner Was A Charming Event

Last evening at the Assembly Park hotel Mrs. William Ruch delightfully entertained twelve guests at a bridge dinner. The attractive rooms at the hotel and the pretty appointed tables were lovely in green, and white and gold, daisies, peonies and ferns, nut cups and favors all being in these soft colors, with the menu for the tempting dinner, corresponding also.

Miss Anna Wood, who is to be married soon to Chester Clausen, was again the guest of honor for the evening. She has been extensively entertained during the past several weeks, attesting to her popularity.

Last evening at bridge Mrs. George J. Smith was awarded the favor for high honors; and Miss Lena Winger received the consolation favor. Miss Wood was presented with a lovely guest favor. The entire evening was greatly enjoyed by all attending.

Short Interviews With Famous Women

"In these days then careers for women are becoming the accepted status, it's a wise person indeed who knows when a career should stop for the wife-and-mother role," is the belief of Norma Shearer, movie star, who in private life is Mrs. Irving Thalberg.

"In the first place, there should be no conflict between a home and a career," she asserted. "If a woman finds her career incompatible with the welfare of the family, she will willingly give it up for the greater happiness of husband and children."

There will not be any question in her mind which comes first. As soon as she sees her job encroaching on home peace, she will realize this means much more to her than a position.

Unless a woman can combine the two without hurting the more important job of being a wife, I believe the average woman is far happier in her normal state of home-maker.

"This gives the woman with definite talent, or the one who has more ambition than her husband, a real problem. Only she can decide it. But I think the majority of women feel that love and a home are, after all, the most important things of life."

"The things that you do with the greatest ease often are the ones that have the greatest appeal," says Rose O'Neill, originator of the famous Kewpies.

"You may make tremendous effort at something you want to do and neither have the same success nor the same enjoyment that you have when accomplishment is easy."

Rose O'Neill apparently took her philosophy from her own life.

The public knows her best as the mother of Kewpies. Fewer people know her as a serious artist who exhibits in Paris and New York, the author of short stories, plays and verse and a novel not yet off the press as well as a musician and composer.

"Make your living the easiest way you can," she advised. "That will give you leisure for the things that matter terribly to you. For, after all, the security is what one must have to make the most of life."

DINNER—Braised mutton cutlet, tomato and cabbage salad, strawberry cobbler, milk, coffee.

Braised Mutton Cutlet

One slice mutton cut 1½ inches thick, 4 potatoes, four or five new carrots, 4 or 6 white onions, 2 tea-poons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup boiling water.

Choose meat from the largest part of the leg. Trim and slash meat in several places through to the bone to prevent curling up. Pare potatoes, scrape carrots and peel onions. Put into a good-sized covered baking dish or roaster. Sprinkle with half the salt and pepper. Broil meat quickly on both sides until brown and place on bed of vegetables. Sprinkle with remaining salt and pepper. Add boiling water and cover closely. Bake two hours or longer in a moderately slow oven. Serve on a hot platter arranging the meat in the center and the vegetables as a border.

Missionary Meeting Grace Church Held

Mrs. C. C. Emmert entertained the members of the Missionary Circle of the Christian church at her home on Highland avenue Tuesday evening.

During the business period the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Mrs. Winifred Wells.

Vice-President—Miss Bernice De-Frain.

Secretary and Literature Secretary—Miss Hazel Rust.

Treasurer—Miss Lillie Cunningham.

Pianist—Mrs. Hazel Emmert.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. Wells and was as follows:

Opening hymn, "Take it to the Lord in Prayer."

Prayer—Mrs. Wells.

The topic for the evening was, "Our Real Selves," which was developed in an interesting discussion by the members.

Mrs. Glasford gave the scripture reading, Luke 24:13-32.

An instrumental trio, "A Dream" by Bartlett, was then given by Miss Hoffman, cello; Miss Nesbit, violin, and Miss Rust, piano. They responded to an encore.

Miss Fannie Mae Strauss gave the book review and Mrs. Ortleson read an interesting article entitled, "Our Ownelves."

Following the benediction a social hour was enjoyed, the hostess serving dainty refreshments.

Spring Ceremonial For White Shrine

The Spring Ceremonial of the White Shrine of Jerusalem was held at Masonic Temple, Friday evening.

The business meeting was held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon followed by a picnic supper, which bountiful repast was enjoyed by eighty-five. The tables were beautifully decorated in white and yellow, the colors of the order, yellow candles in holders of white and yellow, being used, and also, yellow and white daisies.

Preceding the ceremonial in the evening a short program of a patriotic order was given. The Patrol Team of Corinthian Shrine gave an exhibition drill, which was exceptionally good making a pleasing spectacle with their uniforms of white and gold.

Mrs. Tottie Horton with four color bearers, in behalf of the Dixon Woman's Relief Corps, presented the team with a beautiful silk flag, using the ceremony of that order. Capt. Lloyd Lewis accepted the flag with a short speech of appreciation and thanks.

Albertine McKinney gave a reading, "An Ode to the Flag," and responded very graciously to an encore which pleased all present. Mrs. Allan Read sang a patriotic song as only she can sing.

A class of twenty-one were given the degree of the order in a very manner by the officers, Mrs. Catherine Ballou singing throughout the work.

Visitors attended from Peru, Mt. Morris and other surrounding towns.

Practical Club Picnic Tuesday

The members of the Practical Club held an enjoyable picnic for members and their families Tuesday at Lowell park. A tempting dinner was enjoyed at noon and in the afternoon the children enjoyed a swim, while the elders enjoyed the beauties of the park.

PICNIC SUPPER FOR PARLOR CLUB AND FAMILIES.

Women Make Festive Appearance: Talk Real Politics at Convention

BY MARTHA DALRYMPLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Kansas City, June 14 (AP)—The abrupt ending to the first evening session of the convention last night ruined what started out to be a perfectly good fashion parade.

A few straggling women delegates, and several of the brand new committee women who hadn't the inside dope on what was due to be the outcome of the session, got to the convention hall a few moments ahead of the second opening of the day.

Sleeveless summer frocks, no hats, and a general evening festive appearance marked the feminine arrivals, but their day was a short one, for they were forced to file right back again to the lobbies of the hotels and the various clubs being used as delegation headquarters.

Business activities of the ladies included everything from the New York delegation keynote speech delivered by the blonde, slim National Committeewoman, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, to the all-day tea party presided over by Mrs. Albert I. Beach, wife of the Mayor of Kansas City, and the unofficial hostess of all the women visitors.

Mrs. Beach, tall and gracious was the officiating genius at a party that numbered well over 1,000 guests, both men and women. In a cool, faintly figured, green georgette frock, she smiled as pleasantly and sincerely at the end of the day as she did upon the first guest of the morning.

On the floor below, Mrs. Alvin Hart, National Committeewoman from Kentucky and vice chairman of the committee, was busy being gracious to all the women delegates and alternates, a few wives, and the few committeewomen who weren't busy in their state caucuses.

A near-tragedy occurred when it was found that several wandering guests had mixed places and Mrs. Hart's guests were found shaking Mrs. Beach's hand with appreciative cordiality. A public announcement was made and the right ladies were herded to the right places.

Mrs. Sabin, who has just been re-elected to serve as committeewoman from New York, made a pleasant picture as she stood before 89 co-delegates and told them and the world that New York State was solidly behind Hoover. A large, navy blue straw picture hat framed her eyes.

The Kansas City League of Women Voters held a meeting at which Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League, made the principal address, stressing the fact that women voters are urging definite planks for the party platform, not vague generalities.

Mrs. James W. Morrisson of Chicago, who addressed the resolutions committee for the League, also spoke before the Kansas City women, defining the league as a "valuable feeding ground and training school for political work, to show that part women can take in it."

The new committee women who have been selected so far will take their places with the state delegations at today's session. Seventeen states have voted to keep their former women representatives on the National Committee while 20 have so far appointed new ones.

Among the new ones who have already assumed their duties are Miss Bertha Bauer, Illinois; Miss Martha McClure, Iowa; and Miss Elizabeth McCormick of Wisconsin.

The figure of Miss Helen Cannon, daughter of the Illinois "Uncle Joe" and a convention attender for many years, is one about which a crowd is always to be found.

Reed-Blair Wedding June 12

On Tuesday, June 12th, in Freeport, the marriage of Lawrence Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reed of Polo, and Miss Maud Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Blair, of Adeline, took place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. X. Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed, who are both well known and have hosts of friends in Polo and vicinity, will make their home on U. S. C. B. Noble farm, northwest of Polo.

Prairieville Social Circle Meeting

The Prairieville Social Circle held a pleasant meeting Wednesday all day with Mrs. Albion Seavey and daughter Bessie. At noon a bountiful and delicious dinner was enjoyed, attended by twenty-five members, five guests and thirty children. The table and rooms in the home were graced with lovely flowers. It was a special day for the kiddies, so games were suggested for them, and besides playing games, a fish pond was an attraction of delight, and each one caught prizes of candy, and the older ones were not slighted, a grab bag of candy and gum being provided for them, so it was a gala day for the youngsters.

The members of the Circle finished tying comforters, and held a short business meeting. The next meeting will be the annual picnic at Lawrence Park, ending in two weeks.

All present at the meeting greatly enjoyed the beauty of the large flower gardens at the Seavey residence.

Wehafun Club Guest Day Was Enjoyed

The Wehafun club observed guest day yesterday with a delightful 1 o'clock luncheon, served at the Helen Hunt Cafe, each member of the club entertaining a guest. The tables were most attractive and the luncheon was tempting. Spring flowers graced the tables.

The afternoon was spent in bridge at the home of Mrs. Earl Sproul, 112 E. Fellows street, Columbia, iris and peonies formed charming decorations at the Sproul home. Mrs. Angier Wilson was awarded the first favor for high score; Mrs. David Boos received the favor for second score and Mrs. Roy Barron received the consolation favor. Everyone greatly enjoyed the happy afternoon.

Bridge Made Easy

3-INITIAL SUIT BIDS
Thousands of bridge players fear to bid a suit containing four cards. They have been impressed with the idea that at least five cards must be held in a suit in order to make a sound initial bid. This theory is fallacious and obsolete. A four-card suit may be bid with as much freedom as a five-card suit, providing the suit and the total hand contain the minimum requirements for a four-card suit bid.

To make a bid in a four-card suit, the total hand should contain at least 2½ quick tricks, one of which, as a rule, should be in the four-card suit. The four-card suit must contain at least two honors higher than QJ.

The following table sets forth the minimum requirements for a four-card suit bid:

Cards held in bidding suit

A K Q X or	Quick tricks required in other suits
A K J 10	none
A K J X or	1
A Q J 10	1
K Q J 10	1
A K X X or	1
A Q X X or	1
A J 10 X or	1
K Q J X or	1
K Q 10 X or	1
K Q X X	1
A J 10 X	1½ or A Q
K J 10 X	1½ or A Q

To fail to bid a sound four-card suit initially may not only deprive your partner of valuable information but also of a game. It may be just the missing suit that he requires for a no trump bid.

A talk by Mr. W. D. Hart, general contract agent, Illinois Northern Utilities Company, on "Economics of Electric Service for the Home." He explained the rate structure and told of the necessity of having a desirable rate so that electricity could be used in the home to the fullest extent. Mr. Hart spoke of the practicability of electric refrigeration, its cleanliness, freedom from worry it gives the housewife, and its economy of operation.

A reading, "Marie the Hun", was given by Mrs. Adolph Eichler. Her presentation was most pleasing and she graciously responded with an encore.

After the adjournment of the meeting dainty refreshments were served.

Twenty-third Anniversary Arbutus Chapter

The Arbutus Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star of Amboy, observed its twenty-third anniversary Tuesday evening with a banquet and program in the Masonic Temple in that city, the entire evening being one of much enjoyment to all present.

Mrs. Adolph Eichler of Dixon was the Conductress in the evening's work. Sidney Eichler, who lives in Amboy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Eichler is worthy Patron of the Arbutus chapter. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Leake and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Palmer of Dixon were among the visitors. The banquet was served at prettily decorated tables, the place cards each bearing a unique decoration in an up right rosebud, these being in many pretty colors. The rooms and tables were fragrant with peonies and roses and other lovely flowers.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER LAST EVENING.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitebread entertained at dinner last evening Mrs. Ed Franks and her niece, Mrs. Harry Ford of Los Angeles, Cal.

Missionary Circle Was Pleasantly Entertained

The W. M. S. of Grace Evangelical church met at the church Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was opened with a song after which Mrs. Oscar Missman read the Scripture and led in prayer.

Another song was sung and then Miss Bessie Missman played a piano solo which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. A. W. Hartman read the leaflet, "Aunt Margaret's Story." Miss Alta Dunseth very sweetly sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by her mother.

The lesson study was given by Miss Inez Remmers and was very interesting.

A vocal duet by Miss Bessie Missman and Mrs. Will Remmers was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Grant LieVan read a leaflet, "Migratory Children."

After another song the business session was held, conducted by Mrs. F. Brandt, in the absence of the president. All were then invited to the basement, where tempting refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed. Mrs. Oscar Missman and Mrs. Will Remmers had charge of the program and were the hostesses for the afternoon.

LOOKING PAST YOUR NOSE.

Prizes in the world of business go to the man who can look far afield and do a little pioneering.

This old truth is illustrated afresh by a bulletin from the Department of Commerce, pointing out that some American shoe manufacturer can make a fortune for himself by getting busy and cultivating the New Zealand market.

New Zealand imports some $5,000,000 worth of shoes annually. At present, however, it buys 85 per cent of these from Great Britain. The department believes that American manufacturers could get the bulk of this trade, since American styles are so distinctive and American quality so widely known.

New Zealand is a long way off. But some far-sighted manufacturer will read that bulletin, bestir himself and reap a big profit. And his less active competitors will probably say, "The lucky stiff."

OUR STANDARDS SPREAD.

Social students who fear that standardization brought about by American industrial methods is having a bad influence on the world will not get any comfort from a report just issued by the American Engineering Standards Committee.

This report reveals that American standardization methods are spreading all over the world, and shows how 20 great industrial nations have joined in a move that will increase standardization in practically every industry on earth.

It is an inevitable trend of the times and there is no use lamenting it. It has changed our civilization, to be sure; but there are increasing indications that it is going to prove a change for the better.

FINE OLD WORDS.

A special committee appointed by the British Chamber of Shipping has recommended that the words "port" and "starboard" be abolished from the sailor's vocabulary, and that plain "left" and "right" be substituted for them.

This is a change that makes us shudder. Most of the salty language of the old seafaring days, incomprehensible to any landsman, is gone already; but to take away "port" and "starboard" would be to reduce the language of the sea to the level of plain, shore-going conversation. That would be too much. We must keep our illusions.

"Left" and "right," indeed! Does "a little ahead on the right-hand side" sound half so nice as "three points on the starboard bow"? It does not. May the new suggestion perish ignominiously.

AN AUTOMOBILE PEST.

Public Safety, the magazine issued by the National Safety Council, in its current issue calls attention to an automobile pest who usually goes unnoticed in the public prints—the driver who, coming up to a red light at a street intersection, manages to stop his car squarely in the middle of the cross walk, forcing all pedestrians to walk out around him.

The only driver who ever lands in that position is the careless one—or the inconsiderate one. It isn't a hanging offense, of course; but it does cause a terrific wear and tear on the tempers of people who are trying to cross the street at the time. It would be a good thing for every motorist to watch the lights a little more carefully. The cross walk is for pedestrians, not waiting autos.

George Bernard Shaw calls accumulated money the root of all evil. It seems as if we've heard that before somewhere, maybe the Bible?

Americans spent $17,000,000 net abroad last year, according to Secretary Hoover's figures. And probably more drank at home than abroad, too.

Millions of eligibles will not go to the polls and express their choice for president, according to an editorial in a New York newspaper. Who said we have nothing to be thankful for?

Dr. Max Mason, former president of the University of Chicago announces that he sees no Utopia ahead right now. It probably will be several years before there are enough seats in the street cars for all of us.

"Well, after all, our slide was great, like to meet them, but they'll run away, I fear."

"The girls, however, didn't turn. One of them shouted, 'Oh, what fun, to see some little friends.' And then she gaily waved her hand. 'Please come ashore. We all can play. Just stay as long as you can stay. In case you do not know it, you're arrived in Midget Land.'"

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters
BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dear Mom:

It's a real pleasure to be able to inform you that the menage and the inhabitants thereof are doing nicely. The unsightly bandages which temporarily festooned my visage have been removed, and I am almost as good as new.

It is quite necessary now that I get back to normal, because next week I am going on display—for sweet charity's sake. True to her word, Cousin Julia has been giving thought to my case. She introduced me to a friend of hers, a Miss Evans, who is very much interested in working for a babies' dispensary here.

As soon as she saw me, she decided that I must be one of the mannequins at the fashion show that she is putting on to raise money for it.

One of the best shops is providing the clothes, and she is assembling the girls to wear them. She said I was just the type to wear some real Paton sport dresses and coats that are warranted to fill everyone under 90 with envy.

The show is to be at the smartest country club here, and we go on twice a day, just as if we were show folk. Most of the other girls are at the top-notch of real society, and when I mentioned their names Alan was quite impressed. He seemed very glad to have me take part in the affair.

I wondered how he would feel if I were really going to be a model, and get actual cash for my labors. That is something I often have thought of trying to do, but have never mentioned it to the husband.

Personally, I don't quite understand that attitude on the part of men, but I am too much interested in this idea to cogitate much on it now. And Miss Evans has assured me she can keep me busy all summer, doing various things that need to be done for the babies of the slums.

Cousin Julia is determined that I must learn some language, preferably French, and has found a French teacher for me—a gentlewoman who has fallen from her high estate. It appears, but has never lost her 100 per cent Parisian accent. That part of my uplift, however, will not begin until the fashion show is over.

Oh, yes, I forgot to state that I have had a telephone conversation with Pede, in which I told him that since he was such a bone of contention in our family that I thought he had better pass quietly and painlessly out of my life.

Most politely, he said he quite understood how my husband must feel, and hoped he might have an opportunity to meet Alan some time, and to become a family friend.

I'm sending you a little gift—a peace offering for having worried you—it's a little choker of crystal, cut like the links of a chain. I hope you will like it—it looked like something for a lady, that's why I suggested you.

Yours for reform,
MARYE.

NEXT: Mom approves.

Weekly Report of Crop Conditions
Springfield, Ill., June 13.—(AP)—Cool weather has retarded the growth of corn and it needs moisture in the northern part of the state. Clarence J. Root, U. S. Meteorologist, said today in his weekly crop report.

There has been too much rain in the southwest part of the state where hay was damaged. Corn is clean in the northern division, but cultivation was delayed by wet weather in much of the central part. Winter wheat has improved where there has been ample rain. It is heading short in parts of the northern division. The cool weather and rains were beneficial to oats and are reading short in some areas where the moisture has been insufficient, the report said.

Famous star selects OLD GOLD

"One cigarette of the four I smoked in the blindfold test was like shooting a scene successfully after a whole series of failures. It just 'clicked' and I named it as my choice. It was OLD GOLD. Which clears up a mystery, for the supply of OLD GOLDs in my Beverly Hills home is constantly being depleted. It seems that Strongheart and Rin-tin-tin are the only motion picture stars who don't smoke them."

... movie favorite the world over, in one of his best-loved pictures — "The Circus."

MR. CHAPLIN was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like the best?"

How does OLD GOLD do it?

What's the secret of OLD GOLD's winning charm? The answer is very simple. Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant . . . coarse, heavy top leaves, irritating to the throat . . . withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma . . . and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. These golden-ripe heart-leaves give OLD GOLDs their honey-like smoothness. That's why so many people choose them. And that's why you too can pick them . . . even in the dark.

EGGS AND EGGS

When the average person speaks of eating eggs he usually refers to hens' eggs, but the omnivorous human appetite also delights in the eggs of many other creatures. For example, the eggs of ducks, geese, turkeys and many wild birds such as gulls, guineas, and plovers are considered great delicacies. Some hotels specialize in ostrich eggs, but they are rather expensive since they are so valuable for hatching purposes. Terrapin eggs are considered a very attractive addition to the meat. Caviar is a very expensive dish prepared from the eggs of the sturgeon, and the eggs of other fish are usually known as roe, and many varieties are appetizing.

It is apparent that primitive people have always used eggs for food. These were obtained from robbing the nests of birds and even reptiles. Many centuries before the domestication of the hen, which occurred in India about the 15th century before Christ, the native of the jungles learned to catch the wild fowl and keep them in confinement so that their eggs could be gathered more conveniently, without exposing the gatherer to the possibility of being a banquet himself for some wild animal.

Eggs for man very valuable addition to our diet since they contain one of the finest proteins that is obtainable. The whole egg contains about 12-1-2 per cent fat, and is entirely free from starch. It contains much mineral matter in the form of phosphorus, sodium, potash, lime and chlorine.

American people understand the value of eggs in their diet for they consume about $5,000,000,000 worth of eggs per year, each individual consuming on the average of sixteen dozen per year.

Preserving eggs by drying is a very satisfactory method, since thirty-two eggs may be concentrated into a pound of this water-free material. This is usually the type of egg which you eat in bakery cakes. They may also be preserved to some extent by closing the pores of the shell with an airtight material. The most common covering used is water glass or silicate of soda.

Cold storage of eggs is an industry which has developed greatly within the last few years, and eggs preserved by this method are in almost as good condition as when fresh.

The Chinese have a method of preserving their eggs by a pickling process which keeps them edible without cold storage for an indefinite period, actually improving the flavor according to the Chinese idea, with the passage of years. The eggs are immersed for two or three months in a thick infusion of tea leaves to which lime, salt and lye are added. At the end of this time they are drained and coated with a mixture of clay and rice husks. When these eggs are only moderately old, perhaps a year, the yolk is brownish green and of a soft almost pasty consistency, and the white is a stiff jelly of translucent amber. Eggs of ten years or more are considered very delicately flavored. At this time the yolk has increased to such a size by the absorption of water that the entire shell content is a deep brown. The eggs are eaten raw sometimes, accompanied by vinegar cured ginger. While we often joke about Chinese eggs, there is no more reason they should be objectionable because of the changes that have taken place in the egg meat than there is to the transformation of milk into cheese. In fact, the Chinese preserved egg is a very mild product compared to some of the popular strong cheese.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. J. H. writes: "Will you please advise me what to do and what causes my stomach to have a rough raw feeling that seems to extend up to my throat and even to the nasal passages? My throat looks rough and red, with a burning sensation, and I have ulcers in my mouth. Am very nervous and cannot sleep after eating even light food such as toast and milk. Have gas on my stomach and my heart beats hard and fast after eating."

ANSWER: Your trouble is at least gastritis and you possibly have the start of stomach or duodenal ulcers. The cause is over-acidity of the stomach which is created through dietetic indiscretions. Milk and toast are not particularly a light diet, but an exclusive milk diet should prove helpful in your case. Try taking four ounces of certified milk every hour for a few days, and then double the quantity used each time, so that you take eight ounces every hour from early in the morning until you go to bed. If this does not relieve you, consult a good diagnostician and have a careful examination made in which the x-ray is used

The First Political Convention Is On

The first of the 1928 political conventions is under way at Kansas City, with the convening of the G. O. P. to select its presidential nominee. Below are three convention leaders—left to right, Senator Moses, slated to be the permanent chairman; Lafayette Gleason, secretary of the Republican National Committee; and Senator Fess, keynoter of the convention to determine exactly your condition.

QUESTION: A. P. M. asks: "What are the non-mucus-forming foods which will cure ringing in the head?"

ANSWER: Head noises are usually caused by catarrh of the inner ear, and will disappear as soon as the excess catarrhal mucus is thoroughly drained out. The diet for such a condition should consist principally of small amounts of meat, fish, fowl, eggs, and non-starchy vegetables, cooked and raw, and fruits. It is best to avoid all starches and sugars, as well as milk products. These may be said to be mucus-forming if used in excess quantities, and the one who is trying to cure himself of catarrh should avoid the carbohydrates and hydrocarbons as much as possible until the cure is effected.

T	U	B	S

THE RULES

1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2.—You can change only one letter at a time.

3.—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on page 11.

LOMSKI FOULED LATZO: BEATEN AT EVERY STAGE

Former Welter Champ May Not Get Chance Against Walker

New York, June 14.—(AP)—Victory over Leo Lomski, light-heavyweight of Aberdeen, Wash., appeared today to have clinched for Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, another shot at his arch rival, Mickey Walker, king of the middleweights.

Reeling about the ring under a barrage of left and right hooks that seemed about to finish him any moment, Lomski drove a full right deep into Latzo's groin in the sixth round of their ten round match at Ebbets Field last night and was promptly disqualified for fouling. Lomski has been scheduled to battle Walker in a non-title ten round go on the big National League ball park July 4.

The 18,000 fans howled Lomski out of the ring in derision after the blow, which came one minute 22 seconds after the sixth. Lomski twice previously had landed punches on Latzo's body that forced Pete to complain to the referee.

From the foul blow Latzo dropped withering and had to be carried to his corner.

The foul, which calls for automatic suspension under the rule of the New York Athletic Commission, probably will cost Lomski a return match with Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion.

epidemic continued unchecked, with Chick Hafey, Jim Bottomley, Frank Frisch and Taylor Douthit of the Cardinals joining Hornsby in a spree. Hafey went so far as to hit two.

The foul, which calls for automatic suspension under the rule of the New York Athletic Commission, probably will cost Lomski a return match with Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion.

Charley Rigler probably escaped a reversal by the league head when Brooklyn won from the Cubs at Ebbets Field, 7 to 2.

The Phillies ended the spurt of the Pirates by rallying against Burleigh Grimes in the ninth for three runs which won, 4 to 3.

The American League situation remained about the same. The Yankees outlasted the White Sox to win, 8 to 6, in a game notable for the absence of home runs.

Old Jack Quinn flashed back into form at Detroit, and the Athletics won easily, 12 to 5. The Tigers probably would not have had the five if the Athletics had any fewer than a dozen.

Washington rallied in the ninth at Cleveland, but fell just short enough to enable the Indians to win, 8 to 7, on some good pitching by Shaute.

The St. Louis Browns had to get ten innings to nose out the Red Sox, 9 to 8, in a game marked by six home runs in three innings. The circuit blows were evenly divided between the two clubs, with a pair going to Dudley Brannan, St. Louis second baseman, who raised his season's total to six.

WALKER SPEEDS UP HIS BOUTS TO MEET "ACE"

Champion Declares He is Ready for Hudkins' Attacks

Chicago—Mickey Walker is ready for Ace Hudkins. The champion has rounded into great shape for the defense of his middleweight crown against the Nebraska Wildcat, scheduled for Comiskey Park, Chicago, June 21st.

Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, booked Mickey for three fights during the past month and had the title-holder fight himself into shape. Mickey has been grinding away at his Hawthorne training camp each day and will start easing up on his training from now on.

Teddy Hayes, trainer of the 160 pound king, has been working Mickey with featherweights and lightweights during the past three days. He is getting Mickey's speed in tune and plans on setting a pace that will make the challenger look slow when they tangle here on the twenty-first. Hudkins has been punching away at his spar-mates daily, at Mills Stadium on the west side. The Nebraska is in great shape and absolutely confident of winning. He has been showing lots of power in his punching against a collection of middle and light heavyweights. The Ace is planning on winning via the knockout route before the sixth round.

POLITICS ROTTEN BECAUSE VOTERS NEGLECT DUTIES

—JUSTICE THOMPSON

Supreme Court Judge Ad- dresses Class of New Lawyers

Springfield, Ill., June 14—(AP)—Politics is rotten not because of the bad men who are in it, but because of the good people who stay out of it. Justice Floyd E. Thompson of the Supreme Court told the June class of applicants to the Illinois bar upon their admittance to legal practice in the state here today.

"The curse of our country," he said, "is that too many of our citizens are more concerned with their privileges and immunities than with their duties and responsibilities. There are too many slackers who refuse to mix in politics. Any person who is not interested in politics and who considers himself above a political struggle is unworthy of American citizenship. Politics is rotten not so much because of the bad men who are in it as because of the good people who stay out of it. Complacency sometimes falls dangerously near complicity."

Charging the applicants with a great responsibility in the field of work they were entering, Justice Thompson admonished them to steer clear of affiliations that would reflect upon them if they entered politics.

"Is it not as important to the public," he asked the class, "that laws be framed free of the influence of private interests as that they be administered free of such influences? A lawyer in a legislative body, while writing a law in the public interest, has no more right to hold a retainer fee from those whose interests may be affected than a lawyer on a bench has to hold a fee from those whose interests may be affected by a judgment which he enters."

"Axiomatic as this statement seems, yet we find those who will argue that a lawyer with a $50,000 retainer fee from the owner of a public utility is qualified to pass legislation which his client argues is unjust to his business interests. If all the members of Congress were employed by the business interests engaged in interstate commerce, do you think it would be necessary for such interests to employ lobbyists in order to prevent the passage of laws adversely affecting their interests?"

"Our country's great need is that the bar as a whole take an attitude and cultivate a spirit of aggressive hostility to every corrupting influence."

WEST BROOKLYN

West Brooklyn—The rain Tuesday evening was very welcome and although lightning killed several animals and struck some trees in the vicinity, it did much to save the small grain, hay and pasture lands.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Meyer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wolf of Sunrise, Wyoming, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dwyer of Ladd, Ill., and Mrs. Margaret Reiter of Cherry, Ill., at their home Monday evening. The visit was very much of a surprise to the Meyers and was sort of a reunion as Mr. Wolf, Mr. Dwyer and Mrs. Reiter were former employees of Mr. Meyer when he was in the mercantile business at Ladd.

Joseph Chaon is slowly improving and enjoys his daily exercise in his garden.

Wilbur Vickery and J. W. Thier were busy Saturday unloading a combine which Wilbur bought of Mr. Thier. Wilbur expects to be able to do some outside jobs and cut down the cost of the machine.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kelley of Amboy called on friends Saturday.

An insurance adjuster was here Wednesday and paid Arthur Burkhardt for a cow which had been killed by lightning.

The grading and cement mixing machinery on the new state road has been attracting many spectators from town each day. The cement machine moved up from Mendota during the night Thursday and has already laid a mile of pavement.

the University Friday and will spend a week's vacation with his parents before resuming his summer semester which will entitle him to graduate in the fall.

Frank Kellen was a business caller from Shaws Wednesday.

Mrs. Chris Henkel, Miss Helen Long and Miss Rita Henkel were here from Harmon Friday evening and attended the graduation exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. James Reubin drove to Stanford Sunday where they visited friends and former neighbors. Mrs. Carrie Cook was here and spent the week at the homes of her sisters Mrs. Ida Terhune and Mrs. Lula Long.

John Zinke and Andrew Huibsch had a rather thrilling experience on Monday while operating the township grader. The machine struck a rock which was so large that it lifted one side of the heavy machine so high in the air that it completely upset. The two men were thrown clear of the grader before it settled upside down in the ditch.

Amel Henry of Dixon called on friends Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Delhotel of Harmon visited at the home of their parents Sunday.

Frank J. Gehant, Sr. and his two granddaughters, Misses Lillian Bernhardt and Marcella Gehant left Monday via auto for Calumet City, Ind., where they will spend a few days visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Devine.

Merle Thompson was here visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson, prior to entering summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. John Danekas of Reynolds township called on friends Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Delhotel were in Dixon Monday where Julie attended the board of supervisors meeting, while Mrs. Delhotel visited with relatives.

The graduation exercises and the closing school play were held jointly at St. Mary's school hall Friday evening. The graduates were Arthur Jeanblanc, Carl Gehant and Clarence Montavon. Their motto was, "We Can We Will." The class flower was the American Beauty rose and the colors were Nile green and gold.

Following the opening song by the school, the graduates were presented their diplomas by Father Quinn; then the three class rooms followed with their variety of entertainment. The first being a pillow drill by the girls of the primary room. They were attired in their 'nighties' of various shades and made a very pretty setting. Next the boys of the grammar room gave a patriotic drill. The school next gave a two act comedy entitled "When the Cats Away." The girls gave a dialogue next, featuring vocations and the evening was brought to a close with a comedy "Millionaire Janitor." The pupils all rendered their parts in first class shape and both themselves and their instructors deserve much credit.

The Dixon Independents drove down on Sunday and played the local ball team with a score of 13 to 11 in our favor. The game was just like a school kid's, all sorts of hits, errors and scores. Next Sunday they will play Mendota here and following that is when they even scores with Walton.

Mrs. George Bresson left the middle of the week for DeKalb where she will take a six week's course at the Normal school.

A Ford coupe was badly wrecked Tuesday evening at the Mathew Maier corner. It is thought to have been someone trying to beat the storm home or it might have been a stolen car as it bore no license plates and no one was around to have the car cared for the following day.

Miss Marie Graf returned home with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Haas on Sunday for a weeks visit at Peru.

The Foresters held their regular monthly meeting at their clubroom on Thursday evening.

Mary S. Johnson went to Chicago Thursday where she took a through train for Cheyenne, Wyoming to visit her son Charles and family. Later she will go to the state of Washington and then to Los Angeles where she will spend the remainder of the summer with her daughter.

There has been much blasting in the vicinity of the George Vincent farm this week because the road contractors are blasting out the cement bridge and will replace it with one which will comply with state requirements.

Monday a heavily loaded truck all decorated for the occasion transported about fifty of the children of the parochial school to the Amboy park where they enjoyed their annual picnic.

Arthur Montavon and Ray Maier drove to LaSalle Tuesday where they transacted business.

Paul Halbmaier shipped two carloads of livestock for the association Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Burkhardt were here from Sublette Tuesday and visited their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Michel.

John R. Oester met with an auto accident at Mendota Monday which laid his car up for repairs several days. In turning out to avoid being struck by a truck he collided with a telephone pole.

James Bigart was home from Dixon a few days the fore part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Meyer and Miss Thais motored to Canton Sunday where they attended the funeral of a nephew of Mrs. Meyer's, Lyle Rennie.

Rev. Urban Halbmaier was down from Freeport Tuesday with Rev. Russel Guccione and Rev. Raymond Warner, the latter two being former school mates of Father Urban's and who have just recently been ordained to the priesthood. They visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halbmaier and many other friends.

E. E. Vincent took his caterpillar and other road machinery to the vicinity of Compton Wednesday having completed the eight miles of road which is to be graveled on this end. The new commissioner is to be complemented on the fine condition of his roads as well as the little time and money used to put them in shape.

Clyde Grimes of Viola township motored to Dixon Thursday where he returned his assessor's books to the county treasurer's office.

George Kessler and son John were here from near Amboy Tuesday and called on friends.

Tony Auchstetter of Harmon visited friends and relatives Sunday.

Bert Hill and Eri Conbier have been busy this week getting the Lee Center end of the road in readiness at the Frank Delhotel corner.

Bert Hartley drove to Burlington, Wis., the fore part of the week where he conversed with his stock remedy company.

Supervisor John Banks stopped off here enroute to Dixon Tuesday to attend the board meeting.

Mrs. Laura Nelles and Mrs. Elmira Ribley drove to Bradford, Ill., their old home, Wednesday and spent a few days.

William Long and Steve Sherman drove to the Thomas Blackburn farm near Harmon Sunday where Bill contemplated changing the present barn into a dairy one.

Miss Agnes Lipps is home from Rochelle and is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lipps. Dr. and Mrs. E. C. White and Miss Geneva left for Champaign on Tuesday where they will be present at the graduation of their son Earl on Thursday evening. Earl has not only made good in his studies but has won many honors for the university with his pole vaulting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fassig entertained Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kutter of Mendota, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Guethner of LaMoille, Mr. and Mrs. John Fassig and Mrs. Carrie Johnson of this village, at their home on Sunday.

Otto Ege returned home from Amboy Tuesday with a new coupe.

In'uriated Buffalos Endangered Lives

Tallula, Ill., June 13—(AP)—Thrills of the wild west and bowling over buffaloes with rifle fire in the calm setting of an Illinois prairie were almost too much of a reality to five persons here.

The scene was so much of a reality, that had not one of the five possessed a rifle, all of them are wondering today if they would have lived.

The "wild west" episode was enacted yesterday on the farm of the late Col. Charles C. Judy near here, when two infuriated buffaloes charged wildly through their pen and escaped into an open field. Evidently out to commit damage, the two beasts selected four men and one woman working in the far end of the field and bore down upon them.

One of the men barely had time to sprint across a short stretch of ground and grasp a rifle with which he killed a large bull buffalo. The slain animal fell almost in front of the men and woman, who were Frank and Thelbert Bryant, Miss Lizzie Grant, Dick Potter and Francis Barrett, who saved the lives of his companions.

The remaining buffalo, subdued by the fall of its mate, was imprisoned. Both of the animals had been brought to the farm from Wyoming about a year ago.

MRS. EMMELINE PANKHURST DIED IN LONDON TODAY

Noted Militant Suffragist Passed Away at Age of 69 Years

London, June 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, noted suffragist, died this morning at the age of 69.

Mrs. Pankhurst, English suffrage leader, author and lecturer—whose "militancy" helped win the voting franchise for 6,000,000 women of Great Britain—was in the period of her greatest activity one of the most widely-known political reformers in the world.

On the eve of what appeared to be the triumph of the suffrage cause in England, which she had led for more than a decade as the head of the Women's Social and Political Union, founded in 1903, the great war broke out. Up to this time the followers of Mrs. Pankhurst had been widely characterized as hecklers of statesmen, window smashers and firebrands.

Mrs. Pankhurst and many of her aides, including her two daughters, Christabel and Sylvia, suffered nearly every form of obloquy and hardship for the cause. They had frequently been sent to prison and in some instances had gone on "hunger strikes," hoping by this means of self-imposed starvation to attract sympathy for the suffrage movement among British political leaders.

Helped Win War
With the outbreak of the war the attitude of Mrs. Pankhurst and her disciples immediately changed. In a declaration to the members of the Women's Social and Political Union, she admonished them to cease their activities as militant suffragettes and bend all energies toward "helping the Allies to win the war."

Shortly after she helped to mobilize the woman power of the British Isles and organized what was known as the Women's Party, the functioning of which soon won the admiration of the Lloyd George government. Hundreds of thousands of English, Scotch, Welsh and Irish women went upon the farms and into the mills and factories to help raise food and make munitions of war, thus releasing a vast army of men to fight for the Allies.

Mrs. Pankhurst herself went up and down the land encouraging women to enter these new vocations and to increase the field and factory outputs. She went to Russia to help avert the collapse of the Kerensky regime and to save that once great fighting force to the Allies. She took several trips to the United States and Canada and on these tours inspired women workers everywhere. On September, 1918, while she was in the United States, she outlined what the Women's Party had accomplished since 1914 by saying:

"The Women's Party has, throughout this struggle, carried the war into the pacifist campaign, refuting arguments and confounding their author. It has devoted itself to allaying industrial unrest, preventing and putting an end to strikes, and rousing the industrial workers to greater efforts in the national cause. In particular, the Women's Party was able to turn the scale at the miners' strike ballot in South Wales by defeating the efforts of the disloyalists. Similar work is being done by the Women's Party on the Clyde and other great centers of shipbuilding and war industry."

Fought For Blockade
"The Women's Party has fought for a strict blockade and vigorous use of British sea power and against the German scheme for the so-called 'freedom of the seas.' We waged uncompromising warfare against the "wait and see" methods of the Asquith government and had a great share in rousing public indignation and causing its overthrow. We have contended since the early days of the war for that Allied unity which is indispensable to victory. We have been foremost in the fight against every form of compromise peace, realizing that such a peace would be a thinly disguised German victory."

Previously at a mass meeting on Boston Common, she declared that British women were devoting their whole energies to war work and imported American mechanics to stay at their jobs until Germany was brought to defeat. "Every strike in this country," she declared, "strengthens the hands of the German Emperor."

Upon her return to England in the fall of 1918, she and her followers campaigned in the general election which resulted in a victory for the Lloyd George government. At this time, only a few weeks before the signing of the armistice, Mrs. Pankhurst issued this slogan: "War until victory followed by a peace imposed upon the Germans and their allies which, by withdrawing subject populations from their control and by reducing their warlike resources will make it physically impossible for the Germans to wage another war with any prospect of success."

Wisdom Apparent
Meanwhile the House of Commons by an overwhelming majority had declared in favor of enfranchising the women of Great Britain. The political wisdom of the woman who for years had been the object of general execration and ridicule had become apparent. Her calling of a truce in the fight for suffrage was now seen to be a most adroit political manoeuvre.

Some reference should be made to Mrs. Pankhurst's activities prior to the war. As leader of the Women's Social and Political Union she was accused of having inspired many violent acts on the part of suffragettes, ranging from arson and the destruction of art treasures down to the petty annoyance of pulling the coat-tails of cabinet ministers, events that formed a large part of the day's news during the height of the militant activities in 1913-14. She justified some of these breaches of peace as a means to impress upon an obstinate government woman's demand for the vote.

She repeatedly tried to die a martyr to her cause by going on the "hunger strike" each of the half dozen times she was thrown into English prisons. She held that only a martyr's sacrifice would convince the government of the earnestness of woman's appeal, and so nearly did she sometimes come to dying that she was regularly released under the "Cat and Mouse" Act after serving only a few days of the long terms to which she was sentenced. It was only to renew the battle when she recovered her strength.

The period of militancy under her leadership saw women repeatedly charging an army of policemen in attempts to gain the floor of the House of Commons; they were scattered instances of women who gained the galleries of Parliament and chained themselves there; there were almost innumerable cases of women chaining themselves to seats at political meetings, heckling the speakers and finally breaking up the meetings altogether; the homes of many government supporters were fired by suffragettes, and some public institutions destroyed; the slashing of paintings and the destruction of other works of art in the museums became so general that many of the institutions were closed for long periods; petitions were thrown in the face of the King when he went on parade; acid was poured into the mail boxes; hammers were thrown through the windows of business places and ministers' houses; the King's horse was tripped in the Derby by a suffragette who lost her life in the feat.

Taxed Ingenuity
These were only outstanding acts in a long series which taxed both the ingenuity and the daring of the suffragettes.

Mrs. Pankhurst approved of many of these acts and inspired some of them. But her appearance and her personal habits belied the fighting spirit she displayed. She was slight in stature and at 50 was often described as having preserved much of her girlish beauty. Students of her temperament found nothing masculine in it. She reveled in bright colors and flounces as much as the average woman; she was passionately fond of music and children, and was said to have "made the best jam in England." She defended strongly the sanctity of marriage.

But revolutionary blood was traced back to her grandfather, who narrowly escaped being killed in franchise riots. Her father was a radical. As Emmeline Goulden she was born in Manchester, Eng., on a day which she has described as "the anniversary of the storming of the Bastille," but the year is not given. It is believed to have been about 1854.

Educated in Paris

Her education in Paris as a girl brought her under further radical influence, and she became a companion of the daughter of Henri Rochefort, an ardent republican.

In 1879 she married Dr. Pankhurst, who was a member of the first Women's Suffrage society organized in England. She shared her husband's interest in the advancement of women. He was a prominent member of the English bar and was author of the Married Woman's Property Act which became English law in the early eighties.

Upon her husband's death in 1889, Mrs. Pankhurst was left with four children, Sylvia, Christabel, Adela and a son Harry. The latter died in 1910. Adela has been living quietly in the country while the other two girls became aides in the suffragette warfare. The battles began in a small way when Mrs. Pankhurst set out to earn a livelihood for her family in Manchester. She served as a register of births and deaths and as a member of the school board, but she alleged that her advancement was blocked by her sex and in 1903 she plunged into the work of the Women's Social and Political Union, organized through her efforts. The union was at first but mildly militant in its methods.

Balfour's Advice
Its object was to get the government to introduce a government measure for woman suffrage. Many private bills had been brought up but without government backing there was little hope of success. The government was enthusiastic. The former Unionist Premier Balfour advised the women to "kick up a row; invent one method after another. The women took the cue. The Pankhursts, the Pethick Lawrences and Annie Kenney were all among the early leaders, but Mrs. Pankhurst soon became the dominant figure.

The campaign she opened in 1904 in an office of one room had become so widespread ten years later—in 1914—that she had more than the business of directing the suffragette army. Funds ranged from $10,000 to $300,000 a year. The campaign was carried into bye-elections where time after time the women succeeded in cutting down if not eliminating the government majority. Practical politics was played at the same time the campaign of violence was carried on in Parliament Square, or Downing Street. The demonstrations in Hyde Park mustered by Mrs. (General) Drummond, one of Mrs. Pankhurst's aides, attracted upwards of 100,000 persons.

Mrs. Pankhurst, while recuperating from the excitement of riot and arrest in London made two trips to America before the war, once in 1911 and again in 1913. On the latter visit she was ordered deported by the immigration officials at New York, but the government at Washington overruled the decision and allowed her to enter the country with the understanding that she would keep the peace and return to England upon completion of her lecture tour. Many of the organized suffragist bodies in America received her coldly.

Coal Production in State at Standstill

Springfield, Ill., June 14.—(AP)—With a weekly production average of slightly more than a half million tons, the coal industry in Illinois has remained virtually at a standstill throughout May. It was reported today in the weekly statistical review of the bureau of mines, U. S. department of commerce.

Production for the week ending May 26 totalling 570,000 tons, was a slight gain over the previous two weeks in both of which 568,000 tons were brought from the pits.

While the weekly average is still far above the corresponding time of last year, production is still about 500,000 tons below normal years. In the corresponding week of 1927, production was 68,000 tons, while in 1926 the figure was 941,000 tons. The May weekly average for 1923 was 1,292,000 tons.

In other large producing states little change was noted for the week. Total output in Kentucky, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania in the week ending May 26 remained at approximately par with the figures of the previous six days.

A rather sharp decrease for all mines of the nation is predicted by the department on the basis of preliminary telegraphic returns for the week ending June 2. Nation wide tonnage is estimated at 7,382,000 tons, as compared with 8,374,000 tons in the previous week. This is a decrease equivalent to 11.8 per cent, and is attributed largely to the general observance of Memorial Day. The daily average rate of output was but 21 per cent lower than in the preceding six working days. This estimated tonnage will bring the total for the calendar year to 260,700,000 tons, approximately 42,000,000 tons less than had been mined at the corresponding date in 1927.

LEE COUNTY COW TESTING ASS'N. HAS 28 MEMBERS

Report of H. Miles, Tester, Proves of Wide Interest

By Tester H. Miles of Lee Co. Cow Testing Association

The Lee County Testing Association now has 28 members, as follows:

Name of owner, location, number of cows and breeds are:
 Lee McCracken, Amboy, 16, pure-bred Holsteins; Holly Smith, Amboy, 11, pure-bred and grade Holsteins; Rockyford Dairy, Amboy, 30, pure-bred Holsteins; James Morrissey, Amboy, 7, pure-bred Holsteins; Sherman Shaw, Amboy, 11, grade Holsteins; Carl Sartorius, Amboy, 15, pure-bred and grade Holsteins; Roche & Kennedy, Amboy, 11, pure-bred and grade Holsteins; H. L. Rhoads, PawPaw, 22, pure-bred and grade Holsteins; Rudolph Heiden, West Brooklyn, 20, pure-bred and grade Holsteins; George Thier, West Brooklyn, 7, grade Holsteins; Seymour Vickrey & Son, West Brooklyn, 20, grade Guernseys; Walter Acker, West Brooklyn, 8, Holsteins; Baylor Bros., Lee Center, 11, Grade Holsteins; Jos. Fulton, Ashton, 13, grade Holsteins; Fred Wagner, Ashton, 13, pure-bred and grade Holsteins; O. C. Reed, Ashton, 13, pure-bred and grade Holsteins; E. J. Knouse, Franklin Grove, 9, grade Jerseys and Holsteins; O. D. Buck, Franklin Grove, 13, grade Guernseys and Jerseys; Dyvart & Torti, Nachusa, 30, pure-bred and grade Holsteins and Jerseys; Reynoldswood Farm, Dixon, 17, pure-bred Jerseys; Henry Hey, Dixon, 30, pure-bred Holsteins and Jerseys; Shawyer Bros., Dixon, 20, grade Holsteins; Aaron Pluck, Dixon, 10, pure-bred and grade Guernseys; Clarence Bothe, Dixon, 13, grade Jerseys; Utley & Perkins, Dixon, 28, pure-bred and grade Guernseys.

Some very valuable information is being learned by the members of the association. One of the greatest accomplishments perhaps is the elimination of boarder cows from the herds. Now is an excellent time to do this as cattle are very high in price at this time, making it a good time to sell the one that will not return a reasonable amount of profit. But by all means they should not be culled in the "dark," that is, without knowing definitely whether the cow is a boarder or not. A report from a tester in Pennsylvania shows this very plainly.

Pennsylvania Member Finds Good Cow

A farmer in this vicinity when selling a cow a year ago insisted that the buyer take another cow also which he considered a boarder. An association member, who bought the so called boarder, received 11,714 lbs. of milk and 516 lbs. of butter-fat from this cow during the year. Her returns above feed costs were $319.16. She proved to be a very profitable "boarder," say Clair Hindman, tester, Schuykill association.

With the exception of three or four members of the association in this county, all have done some culling since the beginning of the year, but they all knew positively that the cows were not coming up to requirements before they let them go. It pays to know what your cows are doing.

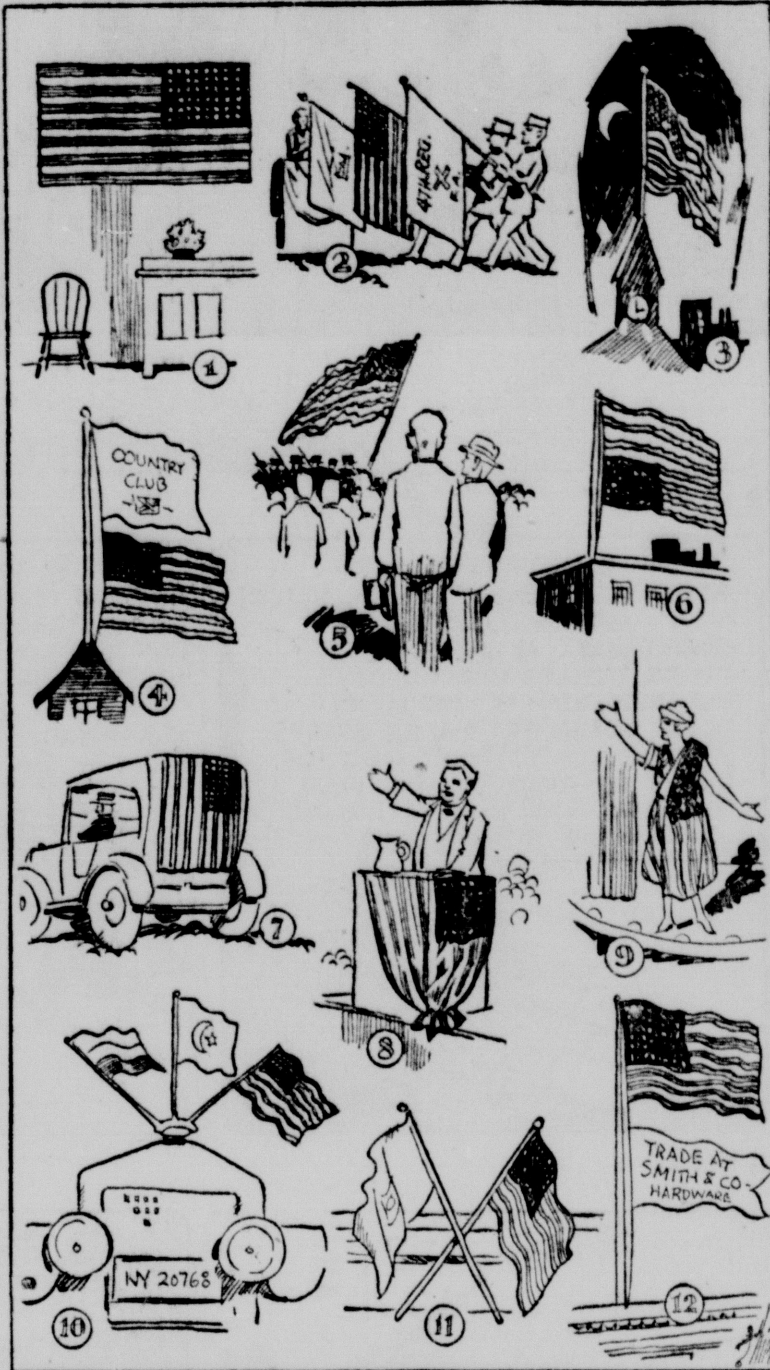

Rhoads' Cow Highest in Year

H. L. Rhoads' cow produced more butter-fat for the month of May than any cow in the Lee County Association has this year. This cow is a pure bred Holstein, 6 years old. She weighs 1400 pounds, and is a wonderful individual, almost true to type. She produced for the month of 1786 pounds of milk and 78.6 pounds of butter-fat. This cow ranked third in Lee county for the month of April. She was in excellent condition when she freshened. She is being fed 4 parts ground corn and cob meal, 4 parts ground oats, 2 parts oil meal and 1 part bran. As roughage she had silage and clover hay. She is being fed so that she gets all the protein her body requires for the production she is making.

The next four ranked as follows:
 Holly Smith, pure-bred Holstein, 6-year-old, 1953 pounds of milk, 66.4

FLAG DAY DONT'S

Can You Tell What Breach of Flag Etiquet is Being Made in Each Picture?

Flag Day is June 14, and, judging by some previous displays, many of us do not know how the flag of the United States should be displayed.

There are only two ways to display the flag properly. One is to fly it freely unfurled from a staff. The other is hang the flag flat, with its full horizontal or vertical falling evenly.

Here are some don'ts for Flag Day:

- 1—The flag here is reversed.
- 2—Do not dip the flag to any person or anything.
- 3—The flag should be taken down at night.
- 4—Do not display any other flag or pennant above the flag of the United States.

pounds butterfat; O. D. Buck, grade Holstein, 8-year-old, 1841 pounds of milk, 62.7 pounds of butterfat; E. R. Fulton, grade Holstein, 4-year-old, 1915 pounds of milk, 61.7 pounds of butter-fat, and Utley & Perkins, grade Guernsey, 3-year-old, 1187 pounds of milk and 61.7 pounds of butterfat.

All these cows were fed the necessary amount of protein to maintain this good production.

Smith's Herd Ranks First

This is the second consecutive month that this herd has ranked high in Lee county. For the month of April they produced 39.7 pounds of butter-fat, and for May they gave 1348 pounds of milk and 43.7 pounds of butter-fat average.

Fulton's Herd Close Second

This herd averaged 1413 pounds of milk and 43.2 pounds of butter-fat. They were a close second last month with 39.2 pounds butter-fat average. Fred Wagner ranked third. His herd averaged 1187 pounds of milk, and 39.5 pounds of butter-fat.

Fourth place was gained by Carl Sartorius' herd which produced 1108 pounds of milk and 37.9 pounds butter-fat average.

George Thier's herd was fifth with an average of 978 pounds of milk and 37.6 pounds butter-fat.

The Lee County Dairy Herd Improvement Association is carried on as one of the projects of the Farm Bureau, and its members are composed of the dairymen of the county.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL TO DIXON PEOPLE IS COMING

Campaign to be Made in This City by Local Workers

Next week The Salvation Army will appeal to the people of Dixon and Lee county for financial support of its work in northern Illinois. It is a universally recognized fact that no welfare organization in the country is more deserving of the support of the public than The Salvation Army.

The local committee in charge of the campaign consists of John E. Moyer, chairman; Wm. F. Hoban, secretary; Wm. Albright, treasurer; C. D. Anderson, A. P. Armstrong, Sherwood Dixon, L. E. Jacobson, Chas. Miller, T. J. Miller, Jr., Wm. Nixon, Louis Pitcher, I. B. Potter, E. B. Raymond, Joseph Staples, R. W. Sterling, Milo Stratton, W. F. Strong, E. W. Vaile, Dr. Raymond Worsley and Tom Young. A women's division of the campaign committee is being organized under the direction of Mrs. Austin George.

Most of the funds secured in Dixon will be used for the maintenance of The Salvation Army Rescue Home and Maternity Hospital located at Chicago, where unmarried mothers find a place of refuge. The average age of the unfortunate girls passing through this institution is 15 years and 95 percent of the girl mothers are permanently restored to lives of virtue and usefulness. Every year a number of girls from Lee county find refuge in this institution, where they receive the best medical attention and care under Christian influences and are enabled to start life anew.

For the last nine years the Salvation Army has conducted annual financial appeals in every progressive city in the United States. The funds needed for the support of this popular social service agency are solicited by local men and women, well known to everybody, and deposited in a local bank which forwards them to state headquarters of The Salvation Army. This method saves money, time, and effort. It secures efficiency and protects the public. Unfortunately a large number of impostors are trading under the name of The Salvation Army. A uniform and a tambourine are all they need to confuse the public. Promiscuous solicitation by salvationists is unauthorized and such solicitors as are engaged in this practice are pretenders.

The Salvation Army helps the poorest families both in the urban and the rural districts. It is the universal friend of the needy and the destitute. We cannot afford to let such splendid work slacken.

His Refusal to Give Senate Information Not Crime

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Robert W. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of the Indiana Standard Oil Co., was acquitted today by a jury in the District of Columbia Supreme Court of charges of refusing to answer questions of the Senate oil committee concerning liberty bond oil profits of the Continental Trading Co.

The wealthy oil man was charged with a misdemeanor for alleged violation of section 102 of the criminal code which provides punishment for a regularly summoned witness to refuse to answer pertinent questions asked by a Congressional committee. Stewart maintained the questions asked last February by the committee were not pertinent.

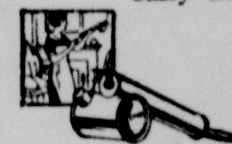

Stewart arose as the jury filed into the court room after being out since 1:05 yesterday afternoon. As the foreman pronounced him "not guilty" a smile wreathed his face and he walked over and shook hands with each of the eight men and four women who had cleared him of the charges.

Stewart was surrounded by his counsel and friends who congratulated him upon the acquittal that climaxed his fight against questions asked by the Senate committee which the oil man held had nothing to do with the subject of the inquiry and in reality were only inquiries concerning his private affairs. He declined, however, to make any statement, saying that possibly later in the day he would have something to say at his hotel.

When A Girl Loves

girl, I shall break that young pup when I'm ready. Don't build too heavily on his help."

"Oh, you're inhuman!" Virginia cried and hung up the receiver. She was thoroughly frightened. Had he the power to harm Oliver? It seemed absurd. Oliver had money. But not so much money as Frederick Dean, Virginia knew. And she was aware that men ruined each other on Wall Street. It could be done. Oliver must be warned.

Virginia had breakfasted and was dressed for the street. She had intended to call that morning at some of the agencies where she had left her name, and make inquiries. Now she pulled on her hat, grabbed her handbag and hurried out to take the subway to Wall Street.

On this occasion Oliver was in when she arrived. Virginia told Miss Evans that she must see him at once. The secretary scarcely looked at her as she took the message, but Virginia was too wrought up to take heed of anything but the necessity of getting to Oliver.

"There aren't any worms on Wall Street," he laughed when she entered his private office. "All bulls and bears."

"Oliver, tell me, could anyone... a man who wanted to, I mean, do something to ruin you?" Virginia burst out.

Oliver jumped. "What's this? What the devil are you talking about?"

"Because someone has threatened to do it," Virginia confessed breathlessly.

Oliver smiled. "Is that all? A jealous sweetie, huh? I thought he was an artist."

Virginia made an impatient gesture. "It was Frederick Dean," she announced simply.

Oliver stared at her and Virginia saw a light, greenish tinge come into his skin. It brought a sinking feeling to her heart. Then Dean was to be feared! She saw her hopes glimmering off into the distance.

Oliver gulped. "Well, he's a powerful man," he said slowly, "but since you've warned me I'll be fairly safe. Are you sure he meant it?"

"I believe he did. It's on my account. Of course you will have to stop speculating for me. That might save you."

"I wish you'd tell me what's behind all this."

"I can't do that, but there's a chance that the threat was made to force you to drop my...," she hesitated for the word. "Account," Oliver supplied. "Account," Virginia repeated.

Oliver did not answer immediately. He appeared to be thinking deeply and Virginia surmised that he was deciding between two courses. She believed he was weighing his safety against his desire to aid her.

"Dean can go to blazes," he exclaimed. "I have every reason to believe you need not distress yourself on that account," Virginia retorted.

"No!" he echoed mockingly. "I suppose you are thinking of what Oliver Cutter is going to do for you? Well, let me tell you, dear ploded, "Forewarned is forearmed." "But Oliver, I can't let you risk it. Knowing about it can't help you much or he wouldn't have told me what he meant to do."

"And on the other hand, it's not such a simple thing to ruin me, you know. I think it was just a bluff to make me drop your account. Well, I won't do it."

"I'm afraid I must. I can't have your ruin on my conscience." Oliver considered. "We'll fool the old boy! I'll drop the account. You can let him know it. And we'll get someone to handle it for us on the Q. T."

"Do you think he wouldn't find it out?" Virginia questioned dubiously. "He's having me watched."

Oliver sat back in his chair and looked completely mystified. "What is he up to, Virginia? You can trust me," he pleaded.

"I do trust you, Oliver, but I can't explain now. Mr. Dean is my bitterest enemy. I'm sure he wouldn't stop at anything to prevent anyone helping me."

"Well, we'll have to be careful then. I'll find a way to meet you secretly. You can tell Mr. Dean that you've withdrawn your account from my firm. I'll send a messenger when I want to see you. Would it be possible for you to leave your hotel unnoticed?"

"I think the management would help me," Virginia told him.

"I wanted to buy A. C. M. stock for you today but I'll wait until we've thrown Dean off the trail," Oliver said. "I'll have something to talk over with you soon."

Virginia left and went back to her hotel to write to Mr. Dean. "... in view of your threat against Mr. Cutter I have withdrawn my account from his firm," she wrote. "And please be advised that I warned him of your intention."

When she had mailed the letter she started out to visit the agencies. The nearest was within walking distance and as she turned east from her hotel she saw the man who was trailing her standing in a doorway. He made no attempt to conceal his presence there and Virginia understood that he had been told she was aware of his espionage.

She wondered if it were not unlawful and was of half a mind to see Mr. Gardiner about it. But the thought of possible consequences deterred her. Dean was not to be trusted. Were she to antagonize him sufficiently he might break his promise to give her a year to repay the money he claimed, and spread his charges against her father abroad.

Besides, his interference had acted as a boomerang and defeated the object he had in mind when he induced Mrs. Phelps to try to persuade her to accept the aid of friends. It had served to send her out looking for employment under her own name and thus made her search much less difficult. And if Oliver could be saved from his attacks what harm could he do? Virginia decided to let the matter drop, at least for the present.

There was nothing for her at the first agency, but the second place she visited had a position the manager believed she could fill very well. Virginia was delighted when she heard of it.

A steamship company had received so many inquiries from passengers in regard to information concerning traveling by water that it realized the necessity of establishing a personal information bureau, she was told.

"They want someone to take charge of the New York branch—someone who has traveled abroad and will be competent to give helpful advice upon any subject pertaining to ocean voyaging," the head of the agency explained. "I've seen a few of the letters they have received from people who have booked passage, or propose to, and the nature of some of these inquiries is amazing. For instance, they want to know what to wear, and how they can get a seat at the captain's table; or whether it's proper to strike up an acquaintance with fellow passengers, how much to tip and what to do for seasickness."

"I'm sure I'd like the position," Virginia enthused. "What is the salary?"

"Sixty dollars a week to begin with. As soon as the usefulness of the bureau is established there will be a larger appropriation made for it. I understand."

Virginia hesitated a moment. "I'd have liked more," she said, "but I think I can earn my salary in this work. I'll take it if my application will be accepted."

"I can assure you of that. The matter came up just this morning and I suggested you for the place at once. We'd have telephoned for you if you hadn't come in. If you are free you might go down and see Mr. Welkins. I told him we would communicate with you immediately. I felt sure you would want to accept."

"Thank you very much, Miss Stone. Is there time before lunch?"

"Yes, if you hurry. He won't go out before one, he said. I will telephone that you're on the way. And I hope you will take the position." She smiled. "We're very pleased to have your services to offer."

Virginia smiled back at her radiant. It was a relief to feel that she had at last found something to suit both her taste and her ability.

Possessed of a feeling that she had gained a step on firmer ground, she hurried to the lower end of Manhattan on a subway express. She was nearing her station when a thought that troubled her greatly occupied her mind and lodged there to cast a shadow upon the bright prospect of the day.

HIGHWAY CULVERT CONSTRUCTION. Notice to Contractors.

Notice hereby is given that sealed proposals for culvert work described herein will be received by Road and Bridge Committee and Chas. Wagner, Commissioner of Highway, Bradford Township at the office of the County Superintendent of Highways in the Court House in the City of Dixon, Illinois, until the hour of 10 a. m. Tuesday, June 19th, 1928, and then publicly opened and read.

Proposals to be sealed in envelopes and endorsed as follows: Proposals for Highway Culvert work, Section 35, Bradford Township, Lee County, Illinois. Proposals sent by mail shall, in addition to being sealed in an envelope provided for this purpose, be enclosed in a second or outer envelope and addressed to Fred W. Leake, at Dixon, Illinois.

Proposals shall be made on forms furnished by the County Superintendent of Highways and all proposals otherwise submitted will be rejected as irregular. All proposals shall be submitted on the plans on file in the office of the County Superintendent of Highways and no bids will be received on any alternative plans.

The culvert upon which proposals are asked is standard number 619, concrete box 6x10, barrel of culvert 30 feet outside to outside, headwalls upstream 30 feet, headwalls downstream 28 feet, headwalls 2 feet below top of box, apron 3 feet below bottom of box at both ends, pavement and slab for 4 foot fill and backfill concrete 5.8 cubic yards, reinforcing steel 4460 pounds.

Said culvert is located on the highway running north and south through Section 35 in Bradford Township, Lee County, Illinois.

All bids must be made for materials in different classes furnished in the work complete, it being understood that he proposes to provide all necessary machinery, tools, apparatus and other means for the construction of said work and do all the work and furnish all labor and material to complete said work in strict accordance with the specifications now on file in the office of the County Superintendent of Highways, known as State specifications for Highway Bridge Construction, edition of April 1924.

No contract will be awarded to any person who has been declared bankrupt or who has been a defaulter as surety or otherwise any other obligation to said Road and Bridge Committee and Chas. Wagner, Commissioner Highways, Bradford Township.

All proposals shall be accompanied by a certified check or cash for the sum of 5 percent gross sum bid, but in no case will a certified check for less than $100 be considered.

The plans and specifications shall be held to cover any and all work that could be reasonably inferred as needed for completion of said work, it is understood that no advantage shall be taken in discrepancies from the drawing or specifications.

It is understood that Road and Bridge Committee and Chas. Wagner, Commissioner reserve the right to accept or reject any or all bids.

BANKERS WILL MEET IN ROCK ISLAND JUNE 20

Notable Speakers Will Address Financiers in Annual Meet

Rock Island, Ill., June 14.—(AP)—Bankers of Illinois, who will convene here June 20-22 for their annual meeting, will hear a notable list of speakers headed by Thomas R. Preston, president of the American Bankers Association.

Mr. Preston, whose home is in Chattanooga, Tenn., will explain for the Illinois Bankers Association, the aims of their national body.

The first day of the three day meeting has been set aside as "assembly day," on which entertainments for the visiting bankers and their wives will be held. The afternoon will be spent by ladies attending the convention in a tour of the tri-cities. In the evening, all delegates will be guests on a short cruise on the Mississippi.

The thirty-eighth annual convention will be called to order Thursday morning, June 21, by President J. M. Appel. After the president's annual address, two speakers will be heard: Douglas Southernland, secretary of the Civic Federation of Chicago, on the subject "What's Wrong with Taxes?" and W. E. Devlin, of Chicago, whose topic is advertising bank services.

Mr. Preston's address is scheduled for the afternoon. The afternoon session will also include a series of five minute talks by Illinois bankers on the different planks in the state association's platform. F. S. Dickson, former adjutant general of Illinois, is to speak at this session, which will be concluded with a memorial service.

Thursday evening, the "social" event of the convention will be held, a dinner at the Rock Island arsenal at which Judge Floyd E. Thompson of the Illinois Supreme Court will be principal speaker.

Three addresses are on the Thursday program. "Where Are We Going in the Air" is the topic of Col. Paul Henderson, identified prominently with the aircraft industry. Eugene M. Stevens, president of the Illinois Mer-

Andrew R. F. Aschenbrenner and Mabelle Clara Degner were married Friday, June 8, at 10 o'clock a. m. in the Lutheran church at Ashton by Rev. W. H. Henke with the single ring ceremony.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white lace over satin and carried a shower bouquet of pink bride's roses and white sweet peas. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gilmore of Compton, the latter wearing a modish frock of white crepe, with a bouquet of red roses. Mrs. Harry Olmstead played the wedding march on the pipe organ. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner of two courses was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Degner, by Mrs. Katie Hart and Mrs. Peter Nelson of Ashton. The young ladies assisting at the tables were Evelyn Kelly of Rockford and Mary Schnell. The honeymoon was spent in Chicago and the young couple will be at home on their farm in Bradford after June 22. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Degner, a graduate of the Lee Center high school and the DeKalb Normal and taught school last year. She is a young lady of attractive personality and a great favorite with her friends. The groom is the only son of Mrs. Andrew Aschenbrenner, a graduate of the Franklin Grove high school and continued his education at Beloit college. He was engaged in selling autos for several years, but is now farming. He is a young man of sterling character and a member of most of the fraternal orders in this village. Their numerous friends are extending congratulations and best wishes.

Miller, Mesdames Bertha Lyman, Nellie Beisecker, Lena Miller, Eda King, Eleanor Sandberg, Rose Draper, Hattie Lippincott. During the meeting Mrs. Lyman was outstanding guardian and Mrs. Genevieve Frost was on the committee of State of the Order.

State Guards to Meet in Annual Tournament

Springfield, Ill., June 14.—(AP)—The third annual state shoot of the Town Guards will be held here on July 20th at Camp Lincoln under the auspices of the Illinois Bankers association.

Unusual interest is being shown in the competition, and the shoot this year promises to attract more guards than ever before. This is attributed largely to the fact that the meet is to be held here this year making it more accessible from all points of the state.

Two cups are to be awarded the town guard federations—one to the federation whose team makes the highest aggregate score in the rifle event—the other to the federation whose team makes the highest aggregate score in the pistol contest. In addition to the cups, gold, silver, and bronze medals will be presented to members of the various federations making the highest individual scores.

In the slow fire rifle competition each entry will fire ten shots from the prone, standing and offhand positions, and 70 seconds time will be allotted each competitor to fire his ten rounds of ammunition from the 200, 300, and 500-yard posts.

Guardsmen, who enter the pistol competition, will fire ten shots slow fire from the fifty foot mark and ten rounds rapid fire from the twenty-five foot post. Twenty-five birds will be allotted each competitor entering the shotgun events.
